Antônio Oliveira lives a bizarre situation with Corinthians in the game against Racing Bruno Lazaroni, an official assistant, signed the match sheet as the team's coach Corinthians went through a curious situation involving coach Antonio Oliveira during the game against Racing, from Uruguay. The Portuguese did not sign the match sheet as the team's coach, but as an assistant. The assistant official, Bruno Lazaroni, was registered as the coach of the team. However, Antônio was still in the reserve bench, directing the team. This happened because Antônio Oliveira had not yet received his UEFA license, despite having completed the course. Conmebol requires this documentation to register coaches. Bruno Lazaroni has the license and therefore was officially registered as the Corinthians coach against Racing. The match took place in the first round of the Copa Sul-Americana and took place at the Centenario Stadium in Uruguay. In addition to Corinthians and Racing, Argentine Juniors and Nacional, from Paraguay, are in group F. The Argentines started their campaign with a victory over the Paraguayans.
